

The Next Generation of Coders Needs You!

Join a community of over 200 volunteers who inspire young people in New York City high schools to pursue careers in tech.

ScriptEd equips students in under-resourced schools with the fundamental coding skills and professional experiences that together create access to careers in technology.

We bring our tuition-free program directly to high schools, where classes are taught by software developers on a volunteer basis. We are looking for volunteers for the 2017-2018 school year.

Want to make an impact as a volunteer teacher? Apply at www.scripted.org/volunteer.

What We Teach

ScriptEd is a year-long class where students learn the fundamentals of front-end web development, including HTML, CSS, Javascript and JQuery.

Where We Teach

ScriptEd classes take place in 35 high schools in Manhattan, Brooklyn, and Queens.

“Volunteering with ScriptEd gives my skills more meaning. I was able to make a real difference working with students who have the passion to learn programming, but lack the opportunities to do so.”

Time Commitment

Classes are held twice a week throughout the school year, from September to May.

Classes typically last for 60-90 minutes. Depending on school placement, classes are held either in the morning (start times from 8:00am-10:00am), or after-school (start times from 3:30pm-4:30pm).

Volunteers are expected to participate for the entire school year, barring unforeseen circumstances.

Volunteers work together in teams of approximately four in each classroom, so you can coordinate with your team if you need to miss class for work or personal reasons.

Training & Support

Volunteers receive coaching and support from ScriptEd Program Managers. There are trainings, team meetings and informal meet-ups throughout the year.

All volunteers must complete our partner schools' fingerprinting and background checks.

"Leading a successful class and watching students grasp a new concept is exhilarating. I love being able to inspire "eureka" moments, when they teach themselves solutions to tough problems—or realize they knew the answers all along."
